Software Project

Super Software Company has been requested to do an important software Project from one of their clients. Client wanted to get the Project as soon as possible. Super Software Company needed to employ some workers for this job. So that it will be a group Project.

Company CEO decided to employ one TeamLeader, one SeniorTester, one JuniorTester and Intern. But their jobs and salary have to be defined before the Project begin. Our program will define these for all of employees who takes part in this Project. I used template method pattern in order to describe their unique salary and task for each of them. What they share common is they all work for this company. So that doWork() method defined already for each.
